"'Might as well be on Mars': Community, Poverty, and Power in Clyde Warrior's America"

A public lecture by

Daniel Cobb
Associate Professor and Coordinator of American Indian Studies,
University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Tuesday, March 26th, 3:30
Bartlett Lecture Hall, Rm 109
Oklahoma State University-Stillwater

Photo: Speaker's Stand, White Eagle Park, Kay County, OK
http://www.ponca.com/121626.html

Daniel Cobb is the author of Native Activism in Cold War America: The Struggle for Sovereignty (2008), which won the inaugural Labriola Center American Indian National Book Award in 2009. He is the co-editor, with anthropologist Loretta Fowler, of Beyond Red Power: American Indian Politics and Activism since 1900 (2007) and, with Helen Sheumaker, Memory Matters (2011). His essays have appeared in American Indian Quarterly, American Indian Culture and Research Journal, Western Historical Quarterly, and Chronicle of Higher Education. His next monograph focuses on the life of Ponca activist Clyde Warrior, a central figure in the American Indian youth movement of the 1960s.

Sponsored by American Studies, American Indian Studies, and Division of Institutional Diversity